

Preface

The 3rd International Conference on Education Studies: Experience and Innovation (ICESEI 2022) was held on 22-23 November, 2022. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the conference was held online in a videoconference format. ICESEI 2022 was jointly organized by the International Science and Culture Center for Academic Contacts (Moscow, Russia) and Zhengzhou Yingchun Conference Planning Co. Ltd (Zhengzhou, China).

The aim of ICESEI 2022 was to provide a common platform for scholars, educators, students and managers with different cultural backgrounds to present and discuss experiences, research and innovations in the field of education. The areas of conference discussion included the following:

- Educational foundations / Curriculum, research and development
- Adult education / Course management
- Global issues in education and research / Inclusive education
- Learning/teaching methodologies and assessment / Pedagogy
- Education and psychology / Education policy and leadership / Educational administration
- Science education / Art education / Business education
- Game-based learning / E-learning

A total of 72 articles were submitted to the conference, of which 40 were accepted for publication after thorough review by three reviewers. All papers included in these proceedings underwent careful review before being selected for publication.

Let us express our gratitude to all the participants of ICESEI 2022 for their valuable contributions to the conference. We would also like to thank everyone who worked hard to organize the conference and prepare the proceedings for publication. Special thanks go to Athena International Publishing.
